

Subscribe Now Limited Time Offer

MEETINGS SIMPLIFIED™ BY HILTON WORLDWIDE
CLICK TO LEARN MORE >

HILTON WORLDWIDE CONNECT

hiltonworldwide.com/simplified

Sign Up for the Phoenix Business Journal Morning Edition Newsletter

Sign Up

See all newsletters

Sep 5, 2004, 9:00pm MST

Real Estate

Realtor team opening office that matches their niche

Mike Padgett

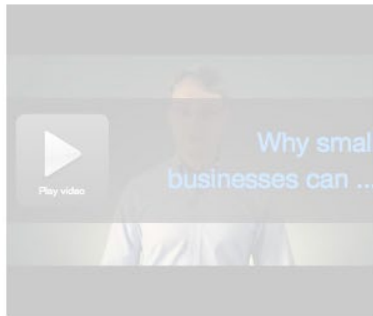

The Business Journal

A husband-and-wife real estate team that has made architecturally unique home sales their niche has a new and equally unique corporate home.

Scott and Debbie Jarson, known as Jarson and Jarson, have worked since 1990 in an association with Realty Executives, where they established their reputation.

But in late August, they formed an independent company in an architecturally unique building in downtown Scottsdale. Their new building, designed by noted Valley architect Will Bruder, is the first one designed for the downtown arts district under the city's Green Building Program. The address is 3707 N. Marshall Way, Ste. 5. Bruder's award-winning designs include the Burton Barr Library on Central Avenue in Phoenix and the Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art.

Making the move with the Jarsons into their new corporate home are sales associates Tim Gillis and Landy Headley; marketing manager Marian Lindholtz; and executive assistant Mary Bonvincino.

Sponsored Links

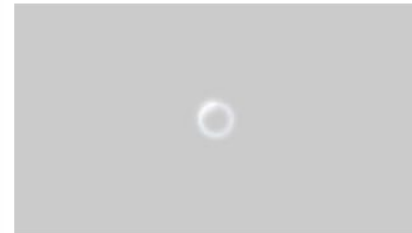

Wi-Fi Network Solutions For Healthcare
Download A Free Survey For Insights On Wi-Fi Adoption In The Healthcare Industry
www.merunetworks.com

Don't Buy An Annuity Until You Watch This Free Video Report!
SeniorAnnuityAlert.com

Get Listed Here

Videos

Take a drive in the new Bentley Continental GTC V8

Record 24-Mile Space Leap from the Eyes of a Jumper

Sponsored: How to Travel Brilliantly

Most Popular

1. Phoenix's Top 10 most expensive home sales of September; see photos of the top seller

